DO YOU ENJOY EATING CELERY, PEACHES, STRAWBERRIES, APPLES, BLUEBERRIES, NECTARINES, BELL PEPPERS, SPINACH, KALE/ COLLARD GREENS, CHERRIES, POTATOES, OR GRAPES? These are all delicious, but are considered to be “the dirty dozen”. The dirty dozen are fruits and vegetables that consistently test higher for levels of pesticide residues. How does one avoid these harmful pesticides? Grow your own!

Andrea Bellamy gives you the dirt on growing gorgeous organic food with very little square footage. Simple, straightforward design and growing advice can help you transform a snippet of space into a stylish and edible oasis.

Bellamy goes beyond the surface and shows you how to:

- Create and maintain healthy soil
- Decide what to plant, and when to sow seeds and harvest
- Enjoy the process—from gardening with family to cooking the harvest
- Make the most of any space—even the most cramped urbanites can grow their own!

Picture that tiny nook, corner, strip, porch, alley, balcony, or postage-stamp-sized yard overflowing with fingerling potatoes, fragrant herbs, sugar snap peas, French breakfast radishes, and scarlet runner beans. Andrea’s ideas are just what you need to join the grow-your-own revolution.
